Harmony Fine Arts at Home

Grade Nine

Year One in the history cycle

Ten Composers/36 weeks

This Harmony Fine Arts at Home music appreciation plan was created to be used by high school students. It is organized in a four year history cycle. Provided in this plan are week by week suggestions for readings in Classical Music Experience, suggestions for listening to related music on CDs or to music online, and links to additional information about the composers and the time periods under study.

The plan schedules reading from Classical Music Experience and then the student will listen to the accompanying CD for each composer studied, as well as listening to selections from the Classical Music Start-Up Kit volumes 1 and 2. These two products are the foundation of the plan and will be used for all four years of high school.

The plan also makes use of two online sources to complement the book Classical Music Experience. You can choose to use one of the online sources, both online sources, or none at all. One online source at www.classicalmusicarchives.com has limited free online listening. You are limited to five selections per twenty-four hour period. This is more than enough to get a thorough understanding of the pieces to be listened to. The other online source for classical music used in the plan is www.naxos.com. This website allows you to listen to 20% of each selection free. You can also subscribe to www.naxos.com for $19.95 per year and receive unlimited listening privileges.

In addition to reading and listening, the student is directed to write a one to two page biography for each composer studied and a one to two paragraph opinion of the composer. The student is also asked to keep a list of the musical selections he has listened to during the study period in a notebook

Student Instructions

1. Basic music appreciation

Each composer should be studied and listened to for approximately one hour per week. Extra time listening to the composer is beneficial if you can add in an extra period each week.

Suggested study/listening schedule for composers scheduled for four weeks***

Session one: Read Classical Music Experience and listen to the corresponding tracks on the CD. Spend the balance of the hour listening to the online sources for the composer. Record the titles of the music listened to on your log sheet.

Session two: Listen to the selection on Classical Music Start-Up Kit. Read any online sources for the composer's biography, making notes for your biography to be written next week. Spend the balance of the hour listening to the online sources for the composer. Record the titles of the music listened to on your log sheet.

Session three: Write a 1-2 page biography for the composer. Spend any extra time listening to more of the composer's music. Record the titles of the music listened to on your log sheet.

Session four: Write a two paragraph opinion and observations of the composer. Listen and record any additional pieces of music you have listened to.

*For Palestrina and Berlioz you will need to condense this schedule down to two sessions.

2. Instructions for online listening

www.classicalmusicarchives.com

You will need to sign up to gain access to their free music. You will need an email address and a password. Once you sign-up for an account, you can click on the composer, choose "free play", and then choose the appropriate selection for listening. You are allowed with a free membership to listen to 5 selections per 24 hour period. Your plan will list out which pieces I suggest that you listen to, but you can choose others if you wish.

www.naxos.com

Naxos requires you to sign up using your email and a password even for a free account. With a free account, you are only able to listen to a portion of each piece. If you sign up for a one year membership for $19.95, you are able to listen to the whole selection. Your membership allows you unlimited access to every CD on their website. You will need to select "search catalogue" and then enter in the suggested catalogue number from the plan. Listen to as many of the tracks as you have time for during your study period
